Experience

Ignacio currently works as a foreign associate at Galicia Abogados, S.C. in Mexico City, providing support on matters involving aspects of Spanish or European law.

He provides advice, mainly to Latin American families and corporations, in relation to the tax planning of their investments in Europe, whether in or through Spain.

Ignacio has over ten years of experience advising on M&A and Private Equity transactions, and his practice extends to advising high net worth individuals, families and managers on the tax structuring of their assets and transactions.

This comprehensive view of business, property and management enables him to understand and anticipate his clients' needs both in the short and long term, and provide them with the most appropriate solutions.

Most of Ignacio's professional activities involve Latin American actors, from which he has developed an in-depth knowledge of the region's tax systems, challenges and policies.

Academic and Publishing Collaborations

He is an associate professor of the tax law praxis course for the master's degree in Business Law at the Universidad de Navarra and has collaborated with the Universidad Carlos III de Madrid.
