Profile

Dídac Severino is an M&A partner at Pérez-Llorca, specialising in energy and infrastructure. He advises investment funds, institutional investors and corporate clients on M&A transactions, investments and divestments, joint ventures and project development, both domestically and across borders. He joined Pérez-Llorca in 2019. Prior to this, he worked in the M&A practice of a prestigious international firm for 13 years, at its Madrid, Barcelona and London offices.

Studies

- 2018 Master's degree in Energy Law, Club Español de la Energía
- 2006 Degree in Business Administration, Universitat Pompeu Fabra
- 2005 Erasmus scholarship, Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin
- 2004 Degree in Law, Universitat Pompeu Fabra

He speaks Spanish, English and Catalan. He also knows some Italian and German.

Experience

Dídac advises on M&A and private equity transactions in the energy and infrastructure sectors, including the acquisition and sale of projects, asset portfolios and platforms, the formation of joint ventures and strategic alliances, consortium investments, leveraged buyouts, and corporate restructuring. His practice covers both domestic and cross-border transactions, with a particular focus on the Iberian Peninsula and Latin America.

He combines his transactional expertise with advice on structuring and developing projects, from their initial stages through to their construction and operation. In this area, he is involved in negotiating contracts for development, engineering, equipment supply and construction; operation and maintenance, the provision of long-term services and asset management, and the purchase and sale of energy.

His clients include energy, infrastructure and private equity funds, institutional investors, energy companies, utilities, independent power producers (IPPs), developers, industrial groups and financial investors.

Academic and Publishing Collaborations

Dídac contributes to articles for specialist legal publications and lectures on Legal M&A on the IEB's Master's Degree in Stock Exchanges and Financial Markets, and on Regulated Sectors on the CEU's Master's Degree in International Business Law.

He also regularly takes part in corporate social responsibility and pro bono activities. He is a trustee and secretary of the Board of Trustees of the Spanish Committee of the United World Colleges Foundation.
